Effort to Make Opposition to Child Labor Amendment Appear To Be a Catholic-Protestant Fight

President of National Committee Writing to Call Attention to the Amendment

"John E. Riley, President Metropolitan Council of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union of the North Georgia and the South Georgia, writes that he shares Mr. William's, director of the National Committee for the Protection of Child Labor Amendment, the feeling that the amendment be ratified, and that the amendment be ratified just as the Bolsheviks do in Russia.'"
