FARMERS GATHER FROM MANY STATES

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK., October 16—(Special)—What to do is one of the most notable gatherings of the agricultural interests of the country ever held will be inaugurated tomorrow with the opening of the twenty-seventh annual session of the Parmelee Agricultural Congress of the United States.

Delegates are here from nearly every state and territory of the United States as is proving another high-water mark of the nation’s efforts of the sort.

John F. Stahl, of Illinois, will preside at the Congress, which will adjourn at some time today.

A number of national fame will deliver addresses, including several government officials and three governors.

The Farmers Union movement which has swept the South and is now rapidly extending all over the country will receive much attention from the congress. C. B. Rider of Georgia, national president, will be the principal speaker on this subject.

The interests of the various states will be represented by W. H. Protzmann, president of the Farmers Union of Illinois, and E. M. Gourley, of the Farmers Union of Iowa.

The Farmers Union movement which has swept the South and is now rapidly extending all over the country will receive much attention from the congress. C. B. Rider of Georgia, national president, will be the principal speaker on this subject.

The interests of the various states will be represented by W. H. Protzmann, president of the Farmers Union of Illinois, and E. M. Gourley, of the Farmers Union of Iowa.

The Farmers Union movement which has swept the South and is now rapidly extending all over the country will receive much attention from the congress. C. B. Rider of Georgia, national president, will be the principal speaker on this subject.

The interests of the various states will be represented by W. H. Protzmann, president of the Farmers Union of Illinois, and E. M. Gourley, of the Farmers Union of Iowa.

The Farmers Union movement which has swept the South and is now rapidly extending all over the country will receive much attention from the congress. C. B. Rider of Georgia, national president, will be the principal speaker on this subject.

The interests of the various states will be represented by W. H. Protzmann, president of the Farmers Union of Illinois, and E. M. Gourley, of the Farmers Union of Iowa.